

CITY OF LODI

COUNCIL COMMUNICATION

AGENDA TITLE: Continue Participation in California Department of General Services CMAS Contracts for Purchase of Desktop Computers

MEETING DATE: June 16, 1999

PREPARED BY: Information Systems Manager

RECOMMENDED ACTION: That the City Council adopt the attached resolution to continue the purchase of budgeted desktop computers, in aggregate amounts of $15,000 or less, from either Micron Electronics or Dell Computers, under CMAS contracts awarded to each by the California Department of General Services (DGS). Such purchases would continue to be made without further bidding, and the City Council would continue to receive quarterly reports of purchases under this resolution.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION: On August 6, 1997, the City Council adopted Resolution 97-108 authorizing staff to purchase desktop computers as budgeted for 1997-99, in aggregate amounts of $15,000 or less, using CMAS agreements with Micron or Dell.

The California Multiple Award Schedule (CMAS) program was established to provide client agencies and local governments with an easy and value-effective procurement option for information technology and commodity products and services. CMAS contracts are based on either Federal GSA Contracts, or upon a competitive bid, negotiation or assessment of contractor products and prices. With CMAS agreements, local governments are given the flexibility to select products or services according to their business needs, with considerations for price, warranty, supplier performance and brand names. (Additional information about CMAS is available on the Internet at www.pd.dgs.ca.gov/acqui/cmas.htm).

Both Micron and Dell have been awarded CMAS contracts by DGS. Both contracts provide established discounts off list prices, so product and price comparisons may be obtained on-line in minutes. Both manufacturers are highly rated for Reliability and Service by PC Magazine, and both offer attractive pricing. Further, computers from both sources are used widely within the City, so authorization to use CMAS contracts would give departments the ability to maintain consistency within their organization at extremely competitive prices, without incurring the additional time and expense of competitive bidding.

It is therefore recommended that the City Council authorize the purchase of desktop computers, in amounts of $15,000 or less, using CMAS agreements with either Micron or Dell, without further competitive bidding or Council approval. Staff would continue to provide the City Council with quarterly reports of purchases under this resolution, and for computer purchases in excess of $15,000, staff would continue to submit its recommendations to the City Council for review prior to solicitation of bids. This contract will apply to fiscal years 1999-2001.
