CITY OF LODI

City Clerk

Dear Mrs. Reimche,

I talked with Tom Peterson this morning regarding the enclosed proclamation. He informed me that it would appear on the Council's agenda on September 18th.

Emergency Medical Services Week is sponsored by the American College of Emergency Physicians and the American Medical Association to help the public become more aware of Emergency Medicine and how it affects them.

Our events during this week will include an open house including health screenings, tours of the emergency department, photo displays around the community at selected locations depicting emergency care and a children's clinic. We hope that the council will endorse the week observing emergency medicine September 29th through October 5th.

If you have any questions or wish I appear before the council, please let me know. I will be more than happy to comply with any request.

Sincerely,

Pamela A. Martin

LOCAL ACTIVITIES MARK NATIONAL ARTS WEEK

dated material

A variety of local activities has been planned by local arts groups to celebrate National Arts Week, September 23 - 29.

A proclamation recognizing the arts and their value and contribution to Lodi as well as to the state and national will be issued by the Lodi City Council at their September 18 meeting.

Other events coming somewhat before the actual week will include a talk by Ray Faraday Nelson, Bay Area science fiction writer, at the September 16 meeting of the Lodi Writers' Association in Hutchins Street Square. The 7:30 p.m. meeting is open to the public.

Another early event is the September 20 free public Brown Bag Concert co-sponsored by the Lodi Arts Commission and featuring Cell Block Seven, a local Dixieland band. Co-sponsor of the noon to 1 p.m. event, to be held in City Hall Plaza on Pine Street, is the Lodi Downtown Business Association.

"Baby With the Bath Water," first play in the current Tokay Players' season, will be performed in the Hotel Lodi Theater at 8:30 p.m. on September 20, 21, 27, and 28, plus a 2:30 p.m. matinee on September 29. Tickets are $6.00.

The Lodi Community Band will perform in concert from 5 to 6 p.m. September 22 at the Grape Festival grounds. The concert is free to the public.

The Lodi Gem and Mineral Society will have a display in the window of the Lodi News-Sentinel building on north Church Street, a preview of the large Gem and Mineral Show set for October 26 - 27.

Several art displays have been arranged by Pearl Sanguinetti, president of the Lodi Art Center. Augmenting a wall display of art by Dorcys Burchell at Citicorp Savings on Church Street will be easel displays of paintings by Suzanne Hansen. Works by Vivian Macheil will be on view at Wright's Stationers on School Street. Dorcys Burchell will also have a display at American Diversified Savings and Loan Association on Oak Street. Artists Irene Nickel and Diana Gibson Aman will have their works on view at a new store, Love at Work, 106 North School Street.

Friends of the Lodi Library will mark the arts week with the beginning of the year's series of contemporary book reviews. At 2 p.m., September 26 in the library's community room, Sachi Ishida will review Maxine Hong Kingston's "Chinamen" and "Woman Warrior," both historical books about Chinese people who came to the United States. Great Books sessions will not begin until October.

A highlight of the week will be a second Brown Bag Concert, co-sponsored by the Arts Commission and the Lodi League of the Stockton Symphony. This free public concert, also in City Hall Plaza from noon to 1 p.m. Thursday, September 26, will feature the Valley Arts String Quarter, a group of symphony musicians performing light classical music. This informal concert will serve to call attention to the series of three ticketed symphony concerts planned for Lodi on January 30, February 27, and April 24 in the Lodi Academy gymnasium. Season ticket sales will kick off on October 24.
